What You Need to Know About Hospital Surfaces

A study by Infection Control & Hospital Epidemiology which surveyed 4 US hospitals found out that of the mattresses surveyed<sup>1</sup>

72%
Had Damage

47%
Required New Cover

25%
Needed Replacing

Hospital mattresses play an indispensable role in patient care. These seemingly unremarkable pieces of equipment are vital to patient well-being during hospital stays.

Patients in Danger

The damaged hospital mattress poses a risk for patient in these areas:

- Uneven pressure redistribution can cause pressure ulcers
- Infection from contaminated mattress
- Allergic reaction from unclean mattress
- Danger of fall from unstable or damaged mattress

Financial & Reputation Implications

- Costs of repairing can be higher than investing in preventive maintenance
- Risk of indirect costs and legal liabilities resulting from patient injuries
- Patients and nurses can report issues with mattress to the media, risking the public image of the hospital

Regulatory & Compliance

Damaged or contaminated mattresses can pose a compliance risk when it comes regulatory standards

SOLUTION

Mattresses in Great Shape, all the Time

Proactive surface replacement plan to change mattresses at the end of their lifecycle.

New mattress covers whenever the change is needed.

Annual inspection of all the surfaces.

Improved Healing Environment

Decrease the risks of patients contracting infections from mattresses.

Regular maintenance of the hospital surfaces ensures equal pressure redistribution and other key mattress attributes.

All the Mattress Needs Adressed by a Single Team

Professional assessment of all the surface at the start of the program to determine their replacement plan.

Unique technology to find and monitor all the mattresses managed completely by LINET.
